

TRAPPER PEAK FORGE

MONTANA

The ring of the hammer on the anvil, the glow of superheated iron as the smith draws it from the forge—the artists and craftsmen at Trapper Peak Forge create hardware of distinction using traditional methods and tools in their Montana studio. Subtle variations reflect the handmade difference of this uniquely American hardware—no two pieces are ever exactly alike.

Extraordinary homes call for extraordinary hardware and accessories.

Trapper Peak Forge continues to pioneer authentic hand-forged designs, colors and finishes that add the perfect finishing touch to classic American homes. The unique look and style of this hand-crafted ironwork is equally at home on fine furniture, cabinetry and doors; whether in fine log homes, timber frame lodges, adobe casas, Cape Cod bungalows or Victorian mansions.

Color is the result of a chemical process and/or the application of heat, never painted or stained. For this reason, Trapper Peak Forge prefers to treat your entire order at the same time if possible to ensure consistency. All finishes are protected with two coats of baked on clear acrylic with the exception of Beeswax.

Start with a finish or choose a style to create a one of a kind look for your home. Carry one design throughout the home or decorate room by room. For exterior, sliding, and passage doors, choose an escutcheon, knob or handle, deadbolt and latch. Cabinet hardware can be mounted plain or with the back plate of your choice. Finish the room with coordinating pieces like towel bars and rings, hooks and pull handles.

The artists at Trapper Peak Forge are happy to quote on custom designs, sizes and applications. Call to discuss your project.

This distinctive entry door hardware appears to have been ripped from the roots of the mountains themselves. The impressive back plates are hand-cut and shaped in Trapper Peak's rugged likeness, handles forged to suggest hewn timbers, then finished to rustic perfection. Equally at home on a hand-hewn door or as a counterpoint to a highly polished masterpiece, the Trapper Peak Signature Series speaks to the rugged individualist.
